PROJECTBOOK
2018

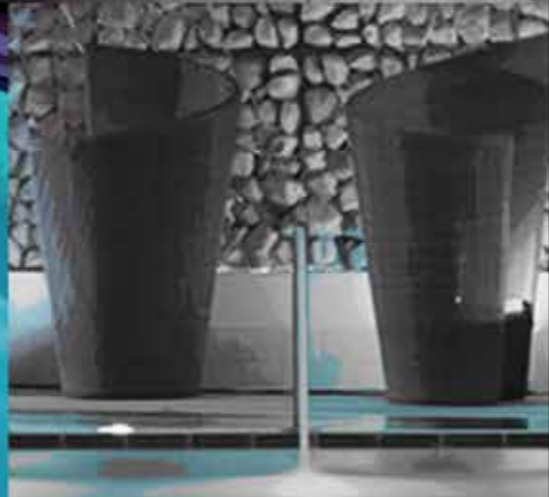

'All the beauty of life is made up of light and shadow' - Leo Tolstoy

Lighting Force was founded in 1999 by the late Ian Howard, to bring his unique vision to the lighting design profession. Ian had a belief that beautiful lighting can be achieved through simple means and that there is no more important tool in the designer's box than light itself.

Establishing his studio in Battle in South-East England, Ian built a team of "imagineers" to realise his vision. Over the years a clientele has been established in hospitality, residential, retail, public space and commercial environments at home and abroad and we have developed an impressive portfolio of completed work.

Our designers understand not only how to apply light, but the practical implications of integrating light sources into a building. There is a strong ethos of teamwork, not only in-house, but with other disciplines involved with a project.

Lighting technology is always evolving. We take pride in being ahead of the curve in understanding how new tools enable new solutions to old problems.
